FOREWORD

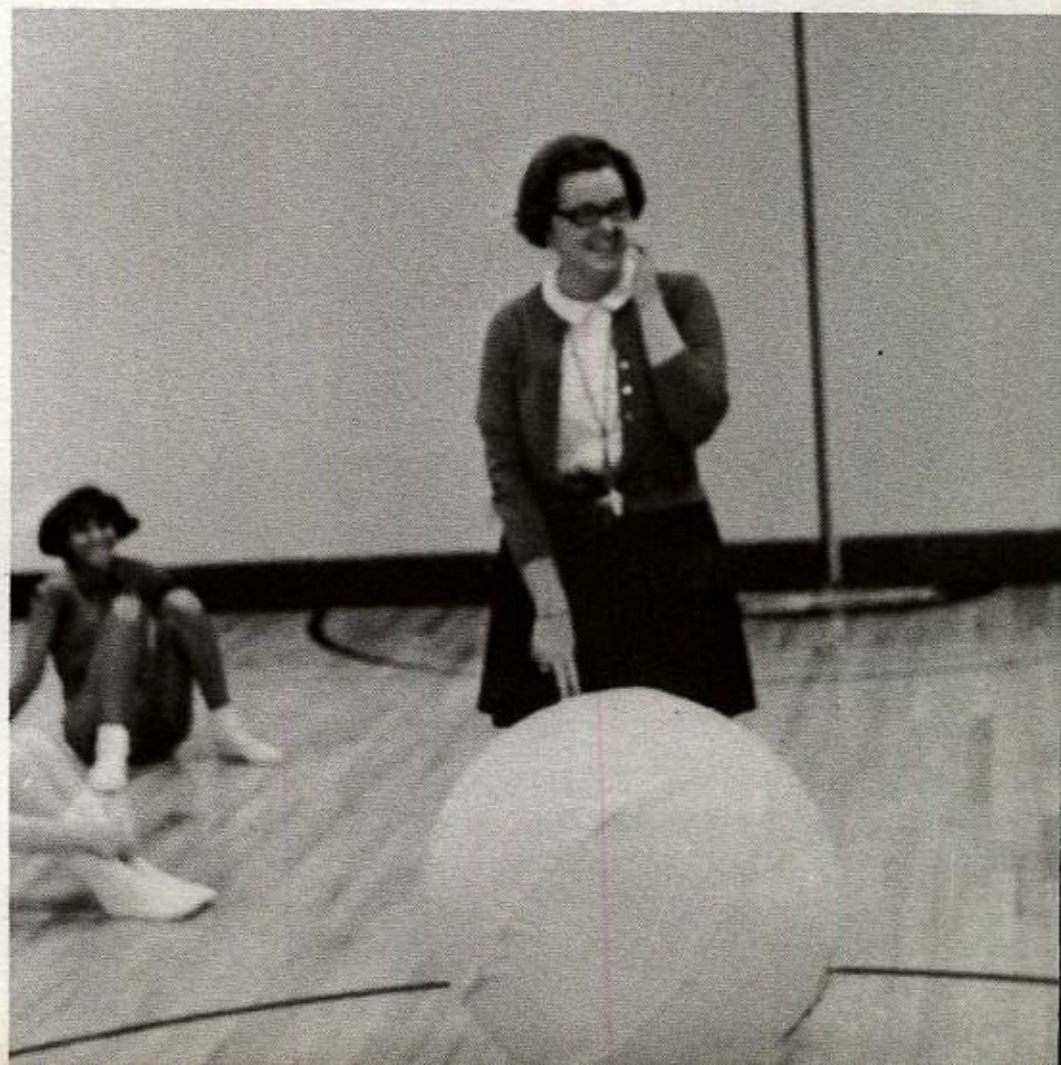
Time is the journal of all men's lives. Uniquely it is a collection of autobiographies of all things that have ever existed. This journal, Time, is composed of memories, recollections of things that have past. The interesting factor of this journal, is that it has always caused perplexity and wonder to those who have tried to analyze it. For time waits for no man; it continually gathers memories.

The 1969 Echoes Staff has tried to record just a few pages of Time in order to present to you memories of the 1968-69 school year. The excitement of a modernistic and large school, the exchange of properous ideas are the keys to the remembrance of this successful year.

Now we invite you to take just a moment to look at a few memories from the journal of time.

DEDICATION

To acquire admiration as well as respect requires a distinctive individual – an individual who will sacrifice valuable time to help and aid others. An individual who is distinguishable by the motive of service; one who finds time to participate and enjoy – this is the individual the 1968-69 Echoes' Staff has chosen for the dedication of Echoes' 69.



For the guidance so willingly given, for the school spirit so actively displayed, and the humor so warmly shared, this yearbook is dedicated to you – Mrs. Esther Stacy.

IN APPRECIATION

Though Time continually changes, the human emotion of gratitude will remain constant.

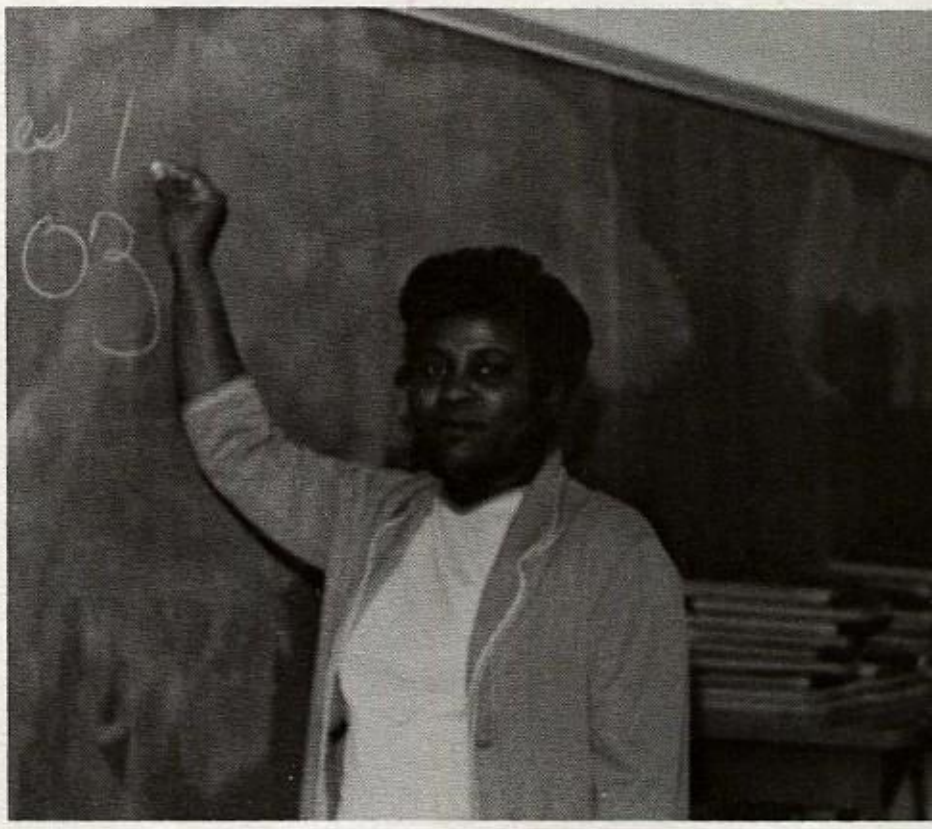
The 1968-69 Echoes Staff has, among their memories of this school year, memories of a delightfully whirling experience of the execution of Echoes 69' – mistakes corrected, layouts rejected, and hurried dead lines met.

Sharing our confusion and misadventures, were two amazing people – the Echoes staff still wonder how they could have possibly withstood those little questions, the bewildered hub-bub and the mischief that all went on behind that Yearbook Room's door. They helped us with a critical eye and a guiding hand, and with the use of that remarkable ingredient – patience.

For such an infinite amount of guidance offered, it is indeed difficult to express all the gratitude we feel.

Mrs. Redman and Mrs. Williams, may we and every 3-R sheet, every red cropping pencil and eraser that went into the production of Echoes 69', bid you our sincerest

Thank you!



Sorry! Best of everything to a challenging and delightful Yearbook year.
Esther R. Redman

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

F. Markham Wingate,
Principal

Change

Is is said that we are living at a time when change is the most important facet of our total environment. The generation gap at the college and high school level is said to have its basis in the resistance of the older adult group to changes proposed by the young adults. While there is undoubtedly some truth in this thesis, is it also not true that this is no recent phenomenon. To establish this proposition, we need go no farther back in history than to the days of that witty, but wise old fellow, Mark Twain. Mark Twain points out his amazement at how much his father learned in that short period of seven years while young Mr. Clemens grew from fourteen (14) years of age to twenty-one (21) years of age. While total resistance to change is stupid, it is easy to establish a claim for selective health resistance.

What changes would any of us propose for these propositions:

1. Respect for the rights of your fellow man;
2. Tolerance for the frailties of others in the same proportion as we seek from them for our own;
3. Equality under the law and in the eyes of God;
4. Truth as best our limited concept can establish it.

We think this requires no answer.

The warm, familiar breeze lingered as the year stepped upon the threshold of all. Through freshly painted doors, Southern's students passed to be greeted by a completely new environment.

Lurking in halls, peering through faces, change invaded every part and particle of Southern High School.

Something new, something strange — this change was to be met.

TRASH
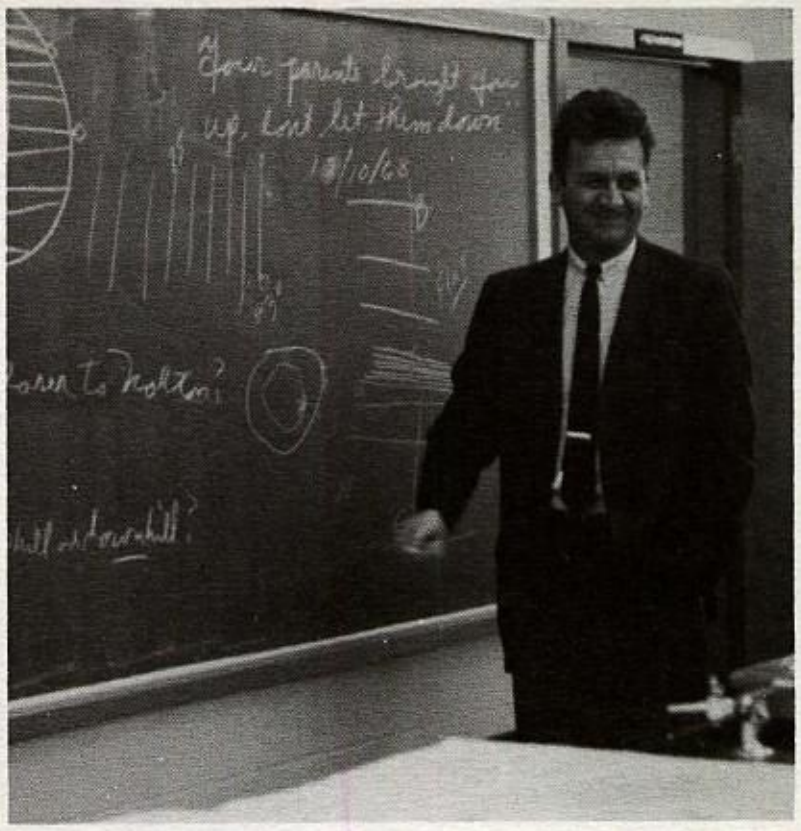
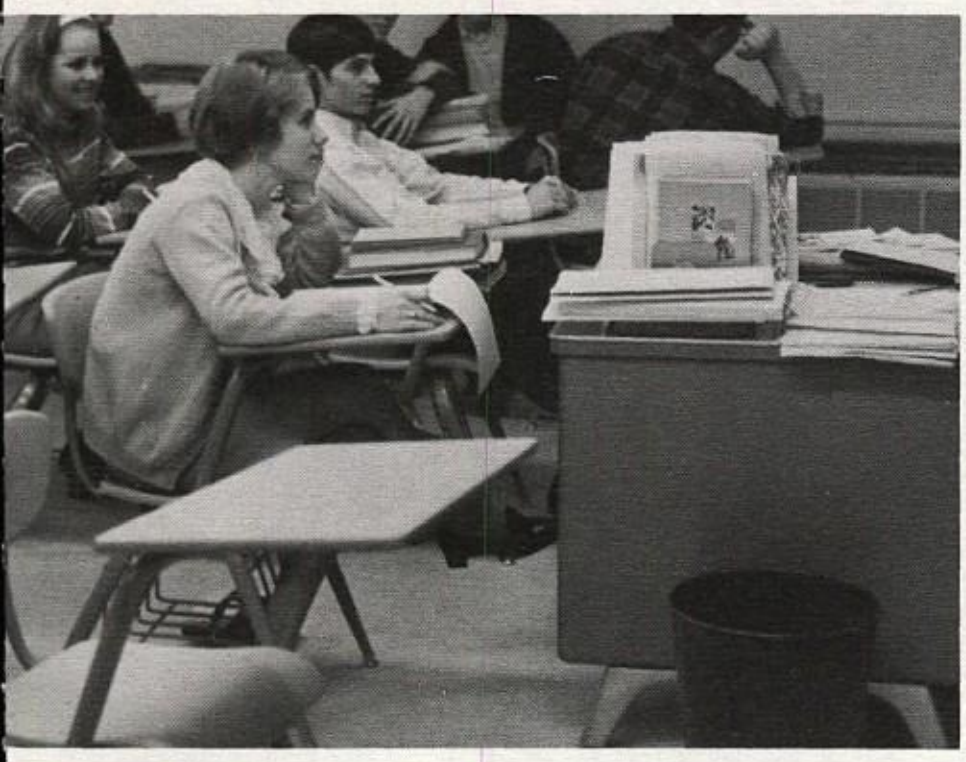
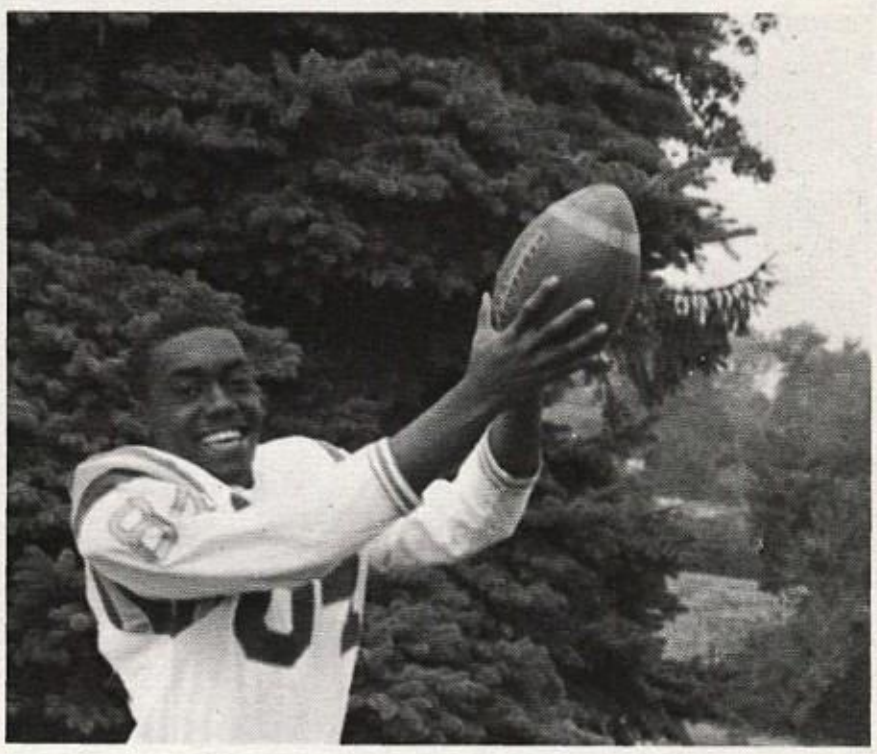
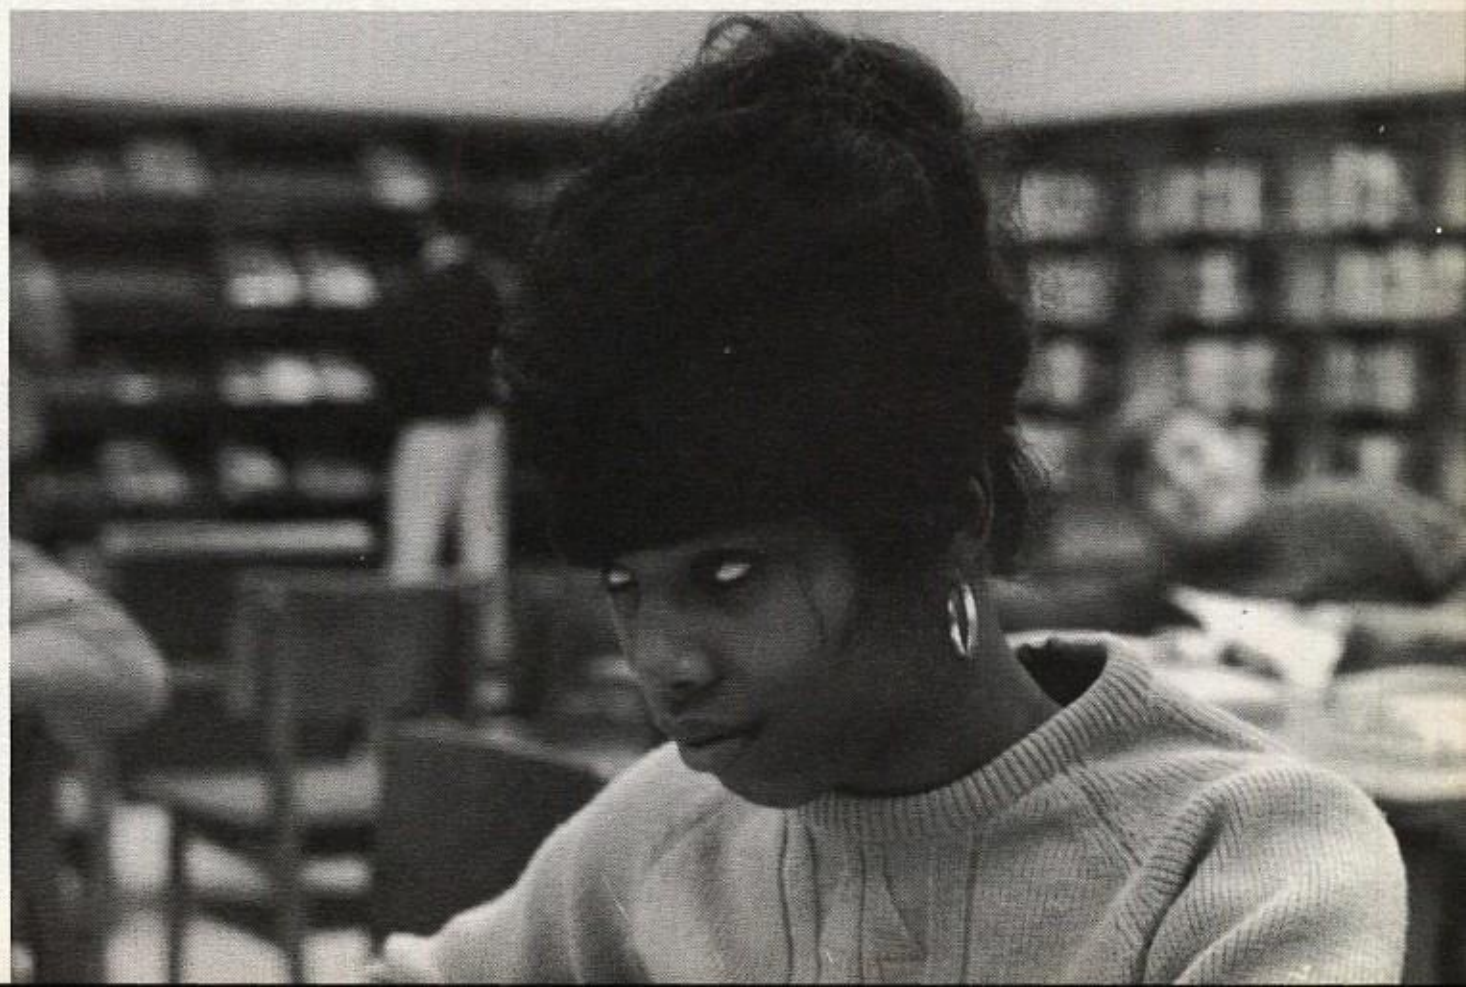
ANNIE

Change is often accompanied by confusion – the unfamiliar is difficult to conquer. Organization of classes and procedures had to be altered to meet the requirements which change demands. Every member of the school had to learn to appreciate the change; for change is as we experience life – we rarely notice how much we appreciate it until we are about to lose it.









MARSHA STALLINGS, 1968 HOMECOMING QUEEN

HOMECOMING

As leaves fall to be covered by snow, fall enters into winter, and as the strangeness of the school and its system become familiar, fears and doubts begin to disappear. The system runs smoothly as the population of Southern becomes confident in its new surroundings.

Tyrone Makell presents a homecoming gift to Marsha Stallings.

1967 Homecoming Queen, Caryn Castro, crowns the 1968 Homecoming Queen, Marsha Stallings.

HOMECOMING COURT

Debbie Cormier, in the role of Fiona, practices with Mrs. Ward for "Brigadoon."

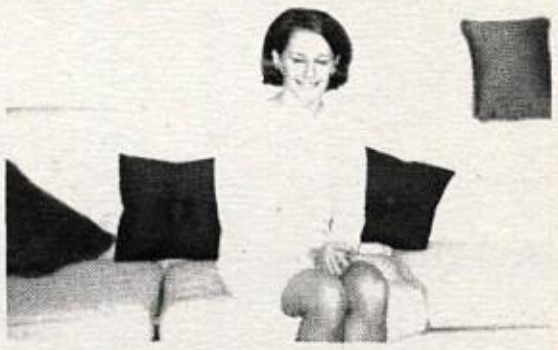
Winter slides into spring. With a sense of security, Southern's faculty and students begin to experiment with the advantages of a new school. The senior play, "Curtain Going Up," and the music department's presentation of "Brigadoon" put the auditorium into full use.

As Southern ventured into the new, the year was coming to an end. A class graduated, another will enter. Southern continues to change.

Mrs. Smith directs the seniors in "Curtain Going Up".

Faye Salisbury has the role of Elsie in the senior play.

Mike Holman, as Santa Claus, and his favorite reindeer perform at the Christmas Assembly.



Teresa Rudderforth was Southern's 1969 Sweetheart Queen.

Changing southern's gymnasium into a Venice Dreamland required creativity and diligence. The 1969 graduating class willingly met this challenge and provided the Seniors with an evening not to be forgotten.

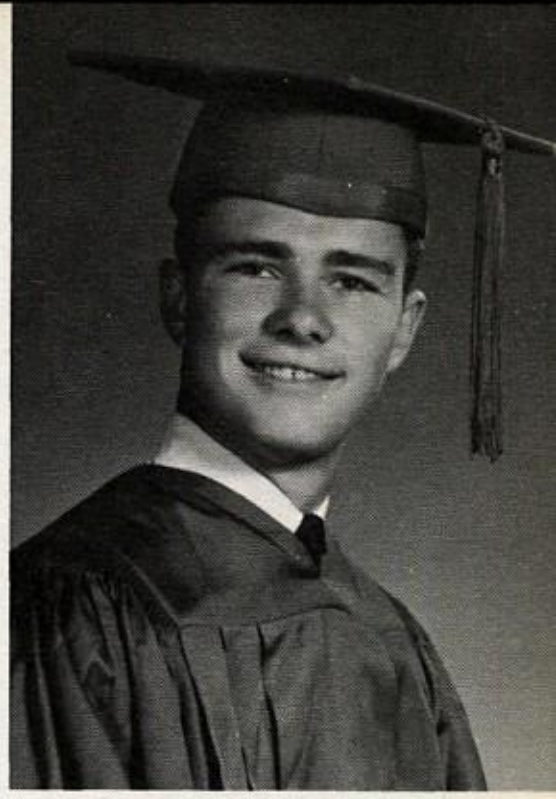
CLASS OFFICERS: President — Pamela Offer, Vice-President — John Holman, Secretary — Sandra Trott, Treasurer — Marsha Stallings



Steve Parks, a graduate.

There is so much to be said of one's senior year. Wrapped in the definite glory of being the ranking students of the school, each senior has experienced a year filled with memories of a victorious Homecoming and dance, a Christmas and Sweetheart dance, and that splendor of the 1968–69 Prom. Then, of course, there was the unforgettable senior play.

Each of these events has meaning for seniors, for this will be the last opportunity for them to participate in such activities.

The Class of '69 was an active, mischievous class. Senior slop day, and struggling for seniors' rights, such as a senior's lunch line or a senior's lounge, were a few of the activities in which the seniors actively participated. They were also a class that wished to be recognized, and it appears they will be for some time by all who see their imprint on the school's baby-blue water tower.

Perhaps the reason for this recognition is due to the fact that the class of '69 will probably by the last of the smaller graduating classes. Seniors, greatly outnumbered by underclassmen, had the privilege of being the first graduating class of Southern Senior High School, Harwood, Maryland.

Yes, 1968–69 will be a year filled with great memories for seniors. A year when they had to prepare for that future a step away. Every senior has been given a background and solid foundation for his life ahead. Now he must completely enter the adult world and meet the future. For each senior in the class of '69 may this thought be with you opon your graduation — "This is not the end. It is not even the beginning of the end. But it is, perhaps, the end of the beginning." — Winston Churchill

"I beg your pardon it was Beethoven's 5th, not Aretha."

Teachers' Organizations

A change has evolved within our faculty this year. This change is the formation of a faculty senate. This senate, consisting of Mr. Kabo, Mrs. Bender, Mr. Roeder, Miss Maroon and Mr. Kahler, represent each of the faculty departments. Once every month this senate meets with Mr. Wingate in an attempt to solve teachers' and students' problems.

T.A.A.C., the Teacher's Association of A. A. Co., is a professional organization of not only teachers of schools in A.A. Co. but supervisors, principals, and librarians are also members of the organization. The main goal of the approximately 2,400 members is to raise the standards of education. It has become the county's official bargainer between teachers and the Board of Education in trying to secure educational policies.

JUNIORS

At the beginning of his junior year, each student is faced with a year of preparation. Scholastically, there are scholarship tests and college boards to be taken. Juniors must prepare educationally for that vast future just a few years away.

Socially, a student's junior year is a whirling sea of activities. The junior class of 1968–69 spent an active, busy year earning money to add to their treasury. The result of the bake sales and magazine campaign was a night of splendor at that memorable 1968–69 Junior – Senior Prom. Besides the decorations, the glamour of the night and the memories that went with it, this year's Prom was marked by the juniors' privilege of using our new school's facilities to prepare for their Prom.

As the 1968–69 Junior year whirls to an end, the members of that class can look back on a busy, wonderful year as many before them have and they can look forward to an exciting future.

That sophomore year is a year of realization; a year in which students must begin to look ahead to the future. The distinction of courses is much more evident and there is much preparation for the important years to come.

The sophomore class of 1968–69 was fully aware of what lay in the future for them. Preparing for college tests to come, interested sophomores took practice Merit Scholarship tests. The class felt to be ready for their prom next year, they should begin now to provide a solid foundation in their treasury. Egg sales, bake sales, and sponsorship of buses to away games were among the sophomores many activities to raise money.

Our gals cheer the Bulldogs on to victory.

Wilde on the move!

Ask any member of the 1968–69 basketball team, and they can tell you what change is. For Southern's basketball team has improved in comparison to past seasons. Displaying a 7–7 record, Southern's Bulldogs placed fourth in the county league.

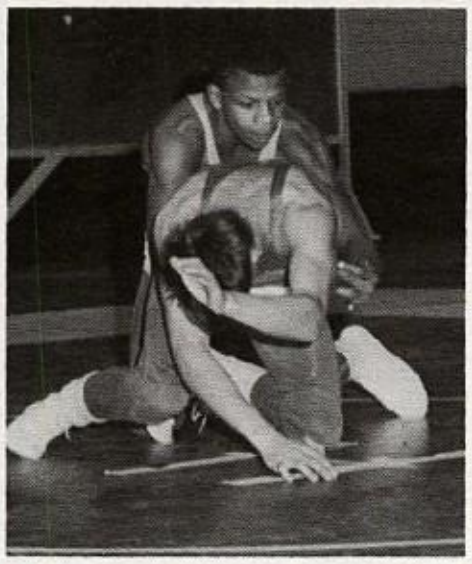
Among our outstanding athletes, Southern is proud to recognize senior Joe Wilde, captain of the basketball team this year. In recognition of this aspiring athlete, note should be made of his selection to the All-County Basketball Team for the second year. With 997 varsity scoring points, and his achievement as a basketball player, Joe was named Most Valuable Player for the year 1968–69.

The Bulldogs move in for the rebound.

Down the court, down the court. Go! Go!

Southern shoots for two.

VARSITY WRESTLING



I love how you hold me!

The 1968-69 Varsity Wrestling Team was successful with a 9-0 record, while tying only one match. In addition to this excellent record, Southern's wrestling team was named Anne Arundel County Champions, an honor which they not only deserve, but also worked very hard to achieve.

This great triumph was brought about under the supervision of Mr. Al Hunt. This honor and great record would not have been possible without the long, hard hours which were put in after school by the team and Mr. Hunt.

Cheerleading is much more than the priviledge of wearing that blue n' gold uniform. That uniform signifies a student who can portray good scholastic achievements, energy, and the ability to entice school spirit with every kick, jump, and smile.

The 1968-69 Cheerleading squad can stand proud and erect in their uniforms, for they have successfully put their energies into helping our new school in its adjustments; and with their smiles and cheers, promoted good school spirit.

The 1968 Southern Bulldogs showed excellent teamwork in posting an overall 9-4 record, which included seven straight league victories. The team was co-champion in Anne Arundel County with Andover and Brooklyn Park.

Many players contributed to the successful record. George Nutwell and Bill Redman were named to the All-County team, while Wayne Neal, Rick Hopkins, Jerry Kuhlman, Lorenzo Thompson, Willie Wilde, Frank Moulden and Charles Foote also played an important part in Southern's championship year. Garry Jones and Ron Beall were the unsung heroes for the Bulldogs.

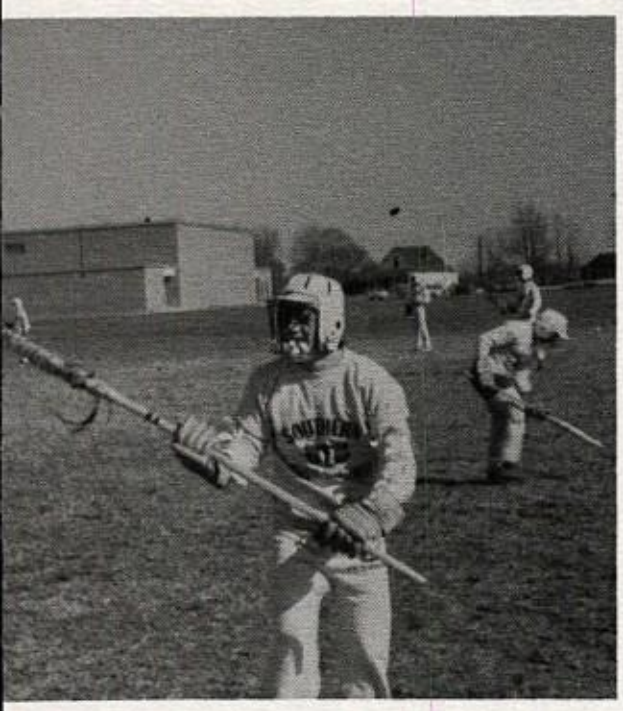
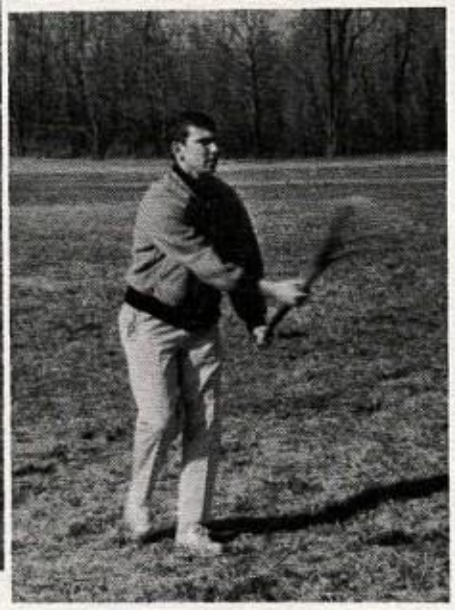
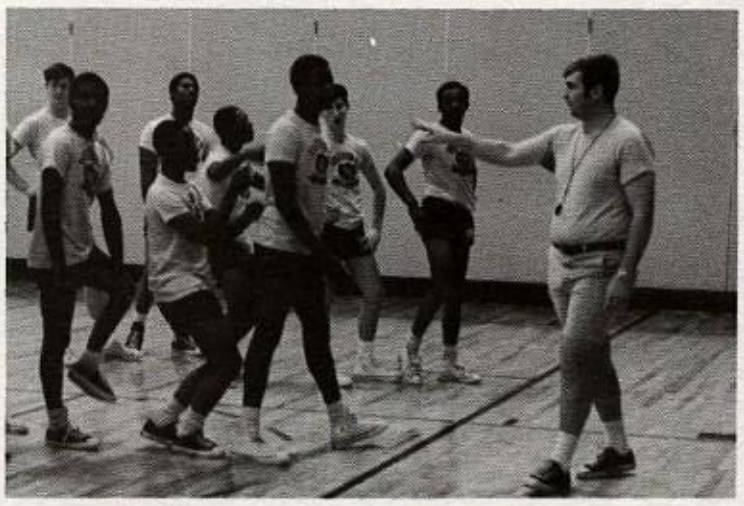
LACROSSE





Surprising the other, Lacrosse teams in the country, Southern's stickmen were ready for county competition this spring. A totally new sport to this end of the county, Lacrosse will provide enthusiastic Southern spectators with a refreshing pastime.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLASSES



Southern's physical education department offers instruction in the familiar activities of basketball, baseball and volleyball. It also conducts an after school intramural program and provides students with an opportunity to learn such varied activities as square dancing and gymnastics.

Just as the school has met changes this year with progress and modernization, so has it been with the Echoes Staff.

Perhaps the most evident change in the yearbook is the enlarged size – from a 8″ X 11″ to a 9″ X 12″. Also, if you have not yet noticed – close your yearbook for a moment (but keep your place with your finger), and look at the spine of the yearbook. For the convenience of possessors of a '69 Echoes, you will find the year and title of the yearbook.

The reader's convenience has also been considered with the addition of an index. The student life section of the book is printed for the first time on a specially textured and tinted paper known as Contemporè.

This year, the Echoes staff has tried to achieve "realistic" memories. Candids of everyday and special events were used in place of the numerous posed pictures.

Another attempt to modernize the yearbook can be found in the advertising section. Throughout the ad section, scenes of the contributing advertisers' establishments appear.

Yes, the yearbook staff has experienced and "suffered" through the production of Echoes '69, just as every yearbook staff does. There were lost pictures, mistakes to be corrected, and hectic deadlines to meet, yet they enjoyed every whirling minute of it. For the Staff of 1969 has realized the purpose of Echoes '69 – to present to you, the student body and faculty of Southern Senior High School, a distinctive journal of memories of the exciting and challenging 1968–69 school year.

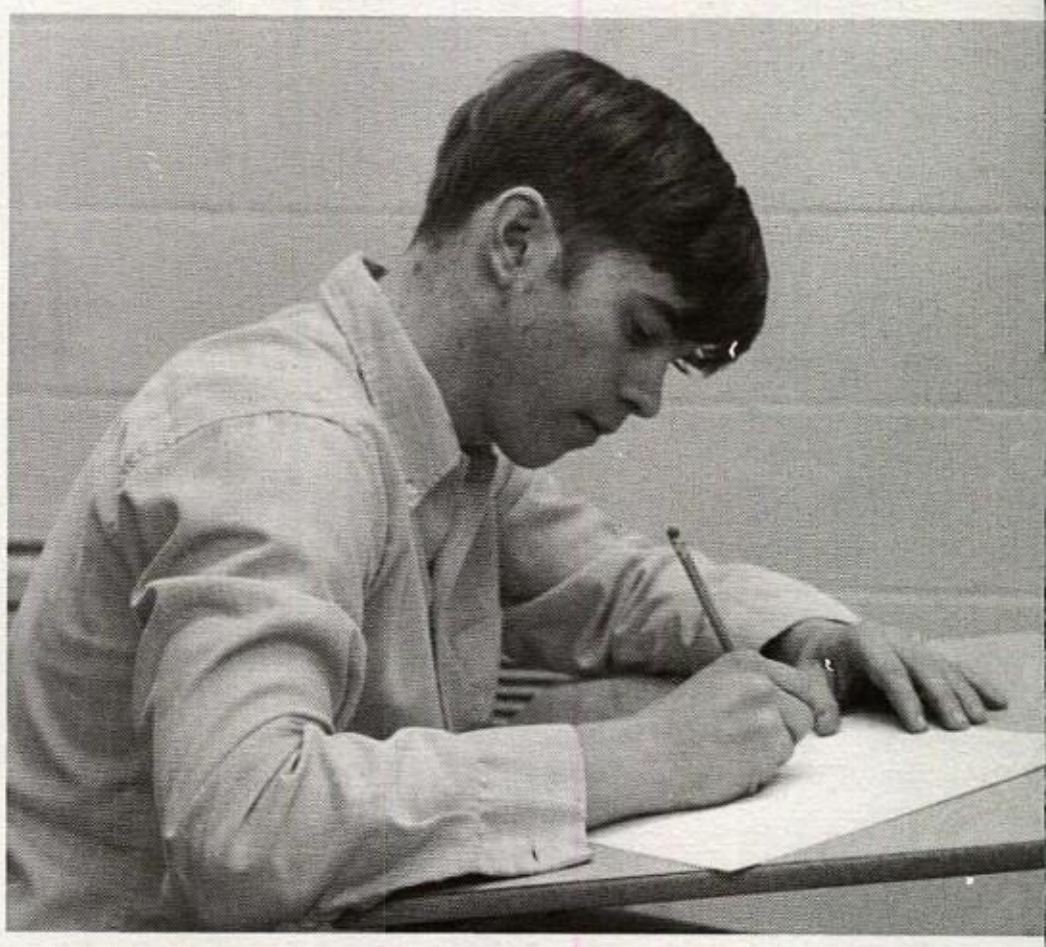
LITERARY MAGAZINE

Mix two Advanced English students, a couple editors, devise a fund raising project, collect creative writings from Southern's students, and add paper and pen; stir all ingretients together in Mrs. Jones' room, and this yields Southern's 1969 Literary Magazine.

Created from the original writings of some of the magazine members, and the student body, and edited and supported by a senior Advanced English class, the Literary Magazine brought to Southern's attention, the talent that exists among its students.



David Boerchkel . . . working?

Donna Schruhl edits copy for the magazine.

Mrs. Bender, Advisor; Don Sullins, Editor-in-chief

A welcome addition to the Southern scene this year was the revival of the Southern Horizons – a four-page publication covering school news, features, sports and an editorial section.

Southern can thank Mrs. Bender and her staff for bringing back the Horizons after an absence of three years.

Student Council Members meet in the cafeteria

Mr. Heim –Advisor

Southern's Student Council has yielded to the atmosphere of change that has affected Southern this year.

Besides the Student Council's traditional duties of preparation of Homecoming ceremonies and dance, and the point system; the group has become a more active participant in the Regional Student Council promoting such measures as overtime pay for county coaches.

Among the new accomplishments within the Southern Student Council, have been the revision of the Student Council Constituton and the participation of Student Council officers in the PTA executive and general meetings.

The Student Council of Southern Senior High School has strived to make our student government a more active and efficient organization.

Student Council President Debbie Susano.

The portrayal of leadership, service, and scholastic achievement is the purpose of the National Honor Society. Each of its members has strived to attain these goals.

This year, the National Honor Society has followed the pattern of change at Southern Senior High. The organization membership quadrupled as a result of the increase in student population. Changing the image of their organization from that of a basically honorary and inactive society, the National Honor Society of Southern Senior High has stressed the role of service this year. The National Honor Society has directed its efforts toward the formation of two scholarships to assist college bound seniors. To accomplish this, candy sales were sponsored and refreshments werre served at the monthly PTA meetings, all new activities in which the NHS has not previously participated. A NHS tea was introduced this year in an attempt to familiarize eligible students with the purposes of the NHS.

BIBLE CLUB

Mrs. Langdon

Southern's Bible Club is as new as Southern Senior High School. The Club's membership consists of sincere students who seek to find a better understanding of the Bible.

Each week, the twenty members, with the aid of records and the contributions of guest speakers, meet to explore the inner meaning of the Bible.

DRIVERS EDUCATION

Mr. Leatherbury

In offering a Driver's Education course at Southern, the hope is to provide a proper education in driving safety.

Because the state law requires persons under eighteen to have Driver's Education before acquiring their licenses, Driver's Education classes have become quite popular. To meet the demands of applicants, four instructors were employed this year.

Mr. Smith presents Bev Hayden with her driver's ed. certificate.

Mr. Taylor

BAND

One organization which has suffered the disadvantages of a new school is SHS's Band.

Facilities for practice and storage of equipment were not completed for the Band until late into the school year.

Yet, under these disadvantages, Southern's Band survived and brought to the school and public three fine musical programs.

CHORUS

Sharing the misfortune of incomplete facilities with the band, the chorus did not let this obstacle bar its way.

After performing for the Christmas PTA meeting, the chorus labored in preparation for the May production of "Brigadoon."

The admiration of such a production was further complimented by the newly completed auditorium in which the musical took place.

The Chorus' activities have indeed contributed to the cultural aspect of Southern Senior High School.

PEP CLUB

With blue and gold string on their fingers and, weird hats on their heads, Southern's Pep Club put their heart and soul into promoting school spirit.

An evident and active organization of the school, the Pep Club was always there urging the Bulldogs through their defeats and triumphs.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Service is indeed the motto of the Athletic Association. Selling tickets, serving refreshments, and running errands at athletic events is all a part of the association's effort to make these events successful and run smoothly.

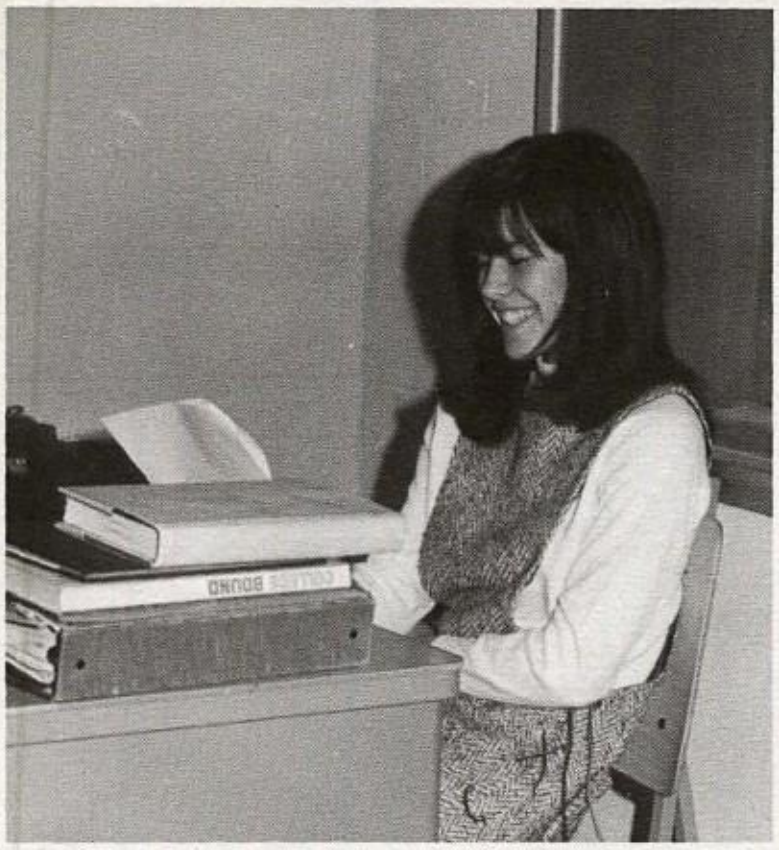
STUDENT

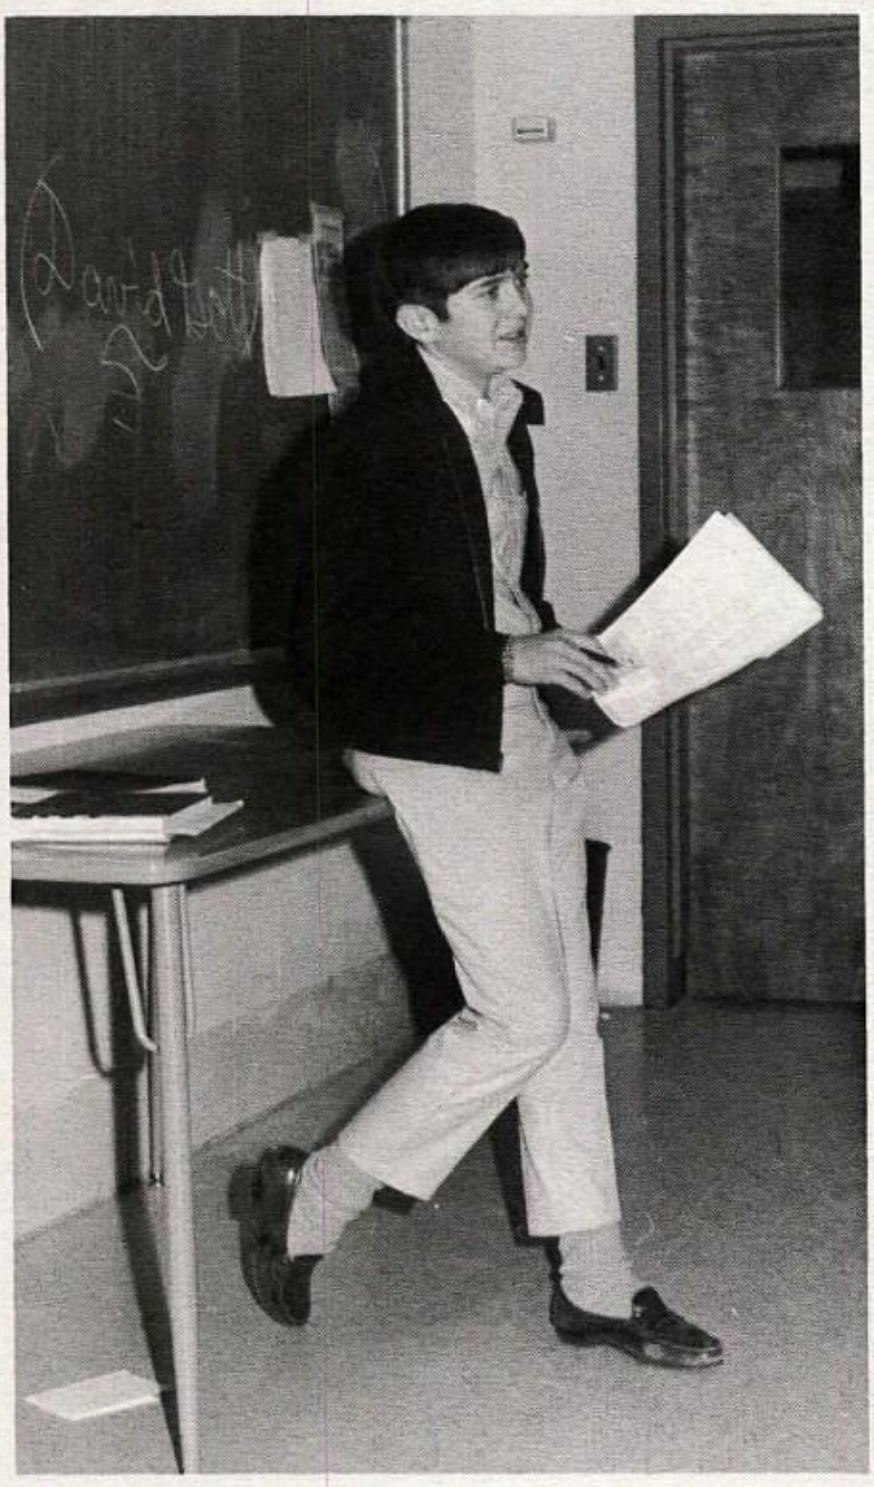


Marsha Stallings

Education involves more than acquiring A's and B's in classroom subjects. Education is the acquisition of knowledge in all fields. Through experience one often finds this education. This year many of Southern's students have learned the importance of responsibility.

Buddy Liddy operates the cash register at Britt's in Parole Plaza.

WORKERS



David Gott substitutes for Mr. Galt.

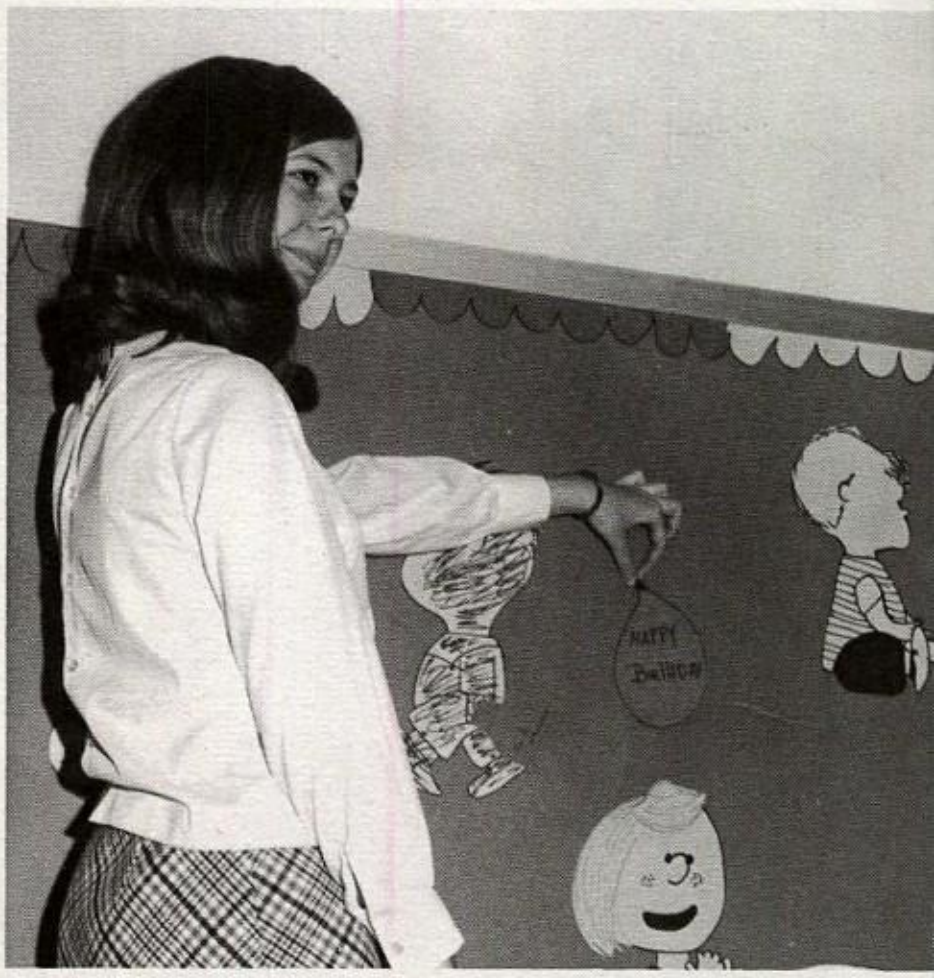
This year there has been a shortage of teachers and substitutes. It was at these necessary times that the administration employed student teachers. Each of these students were held responsible for the control and execution of the regular teacher's classes.

Leo McKeever works in Ricky's Store at Parole Plaza.

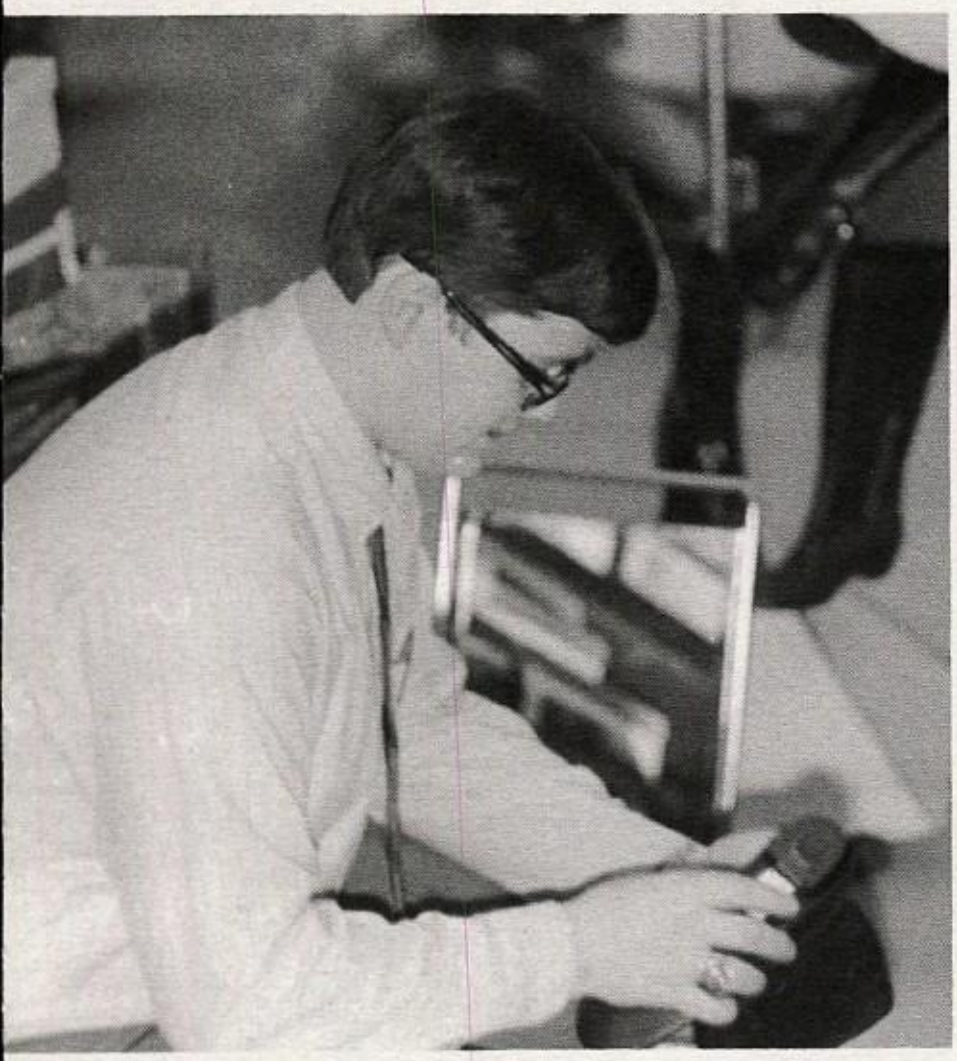
Rebecca Nuckols takes roll for Mr. Heim.

Education, though, does not hide itself within the school building. Education extends far wider than that. In many local stores and business one finds Southern's students peeking over counters or smiling at customers.

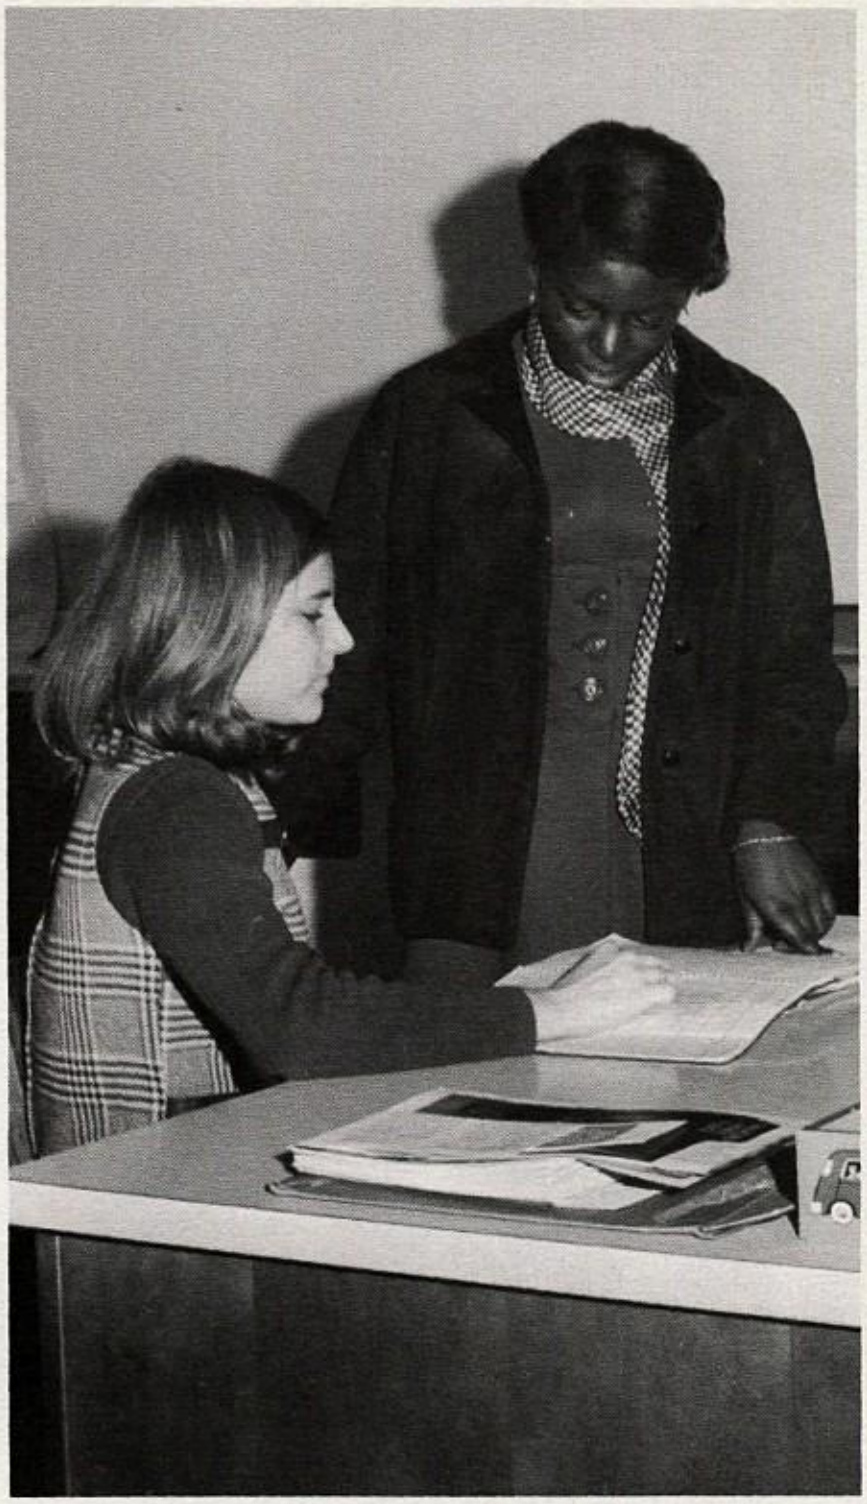
Terry Wertz smiles at a customer in Sear's catalog department.



Mary Leatherbury and Peppermint Patty put up a school bulletin board.



Buddy Samples shows shoes to a customer in Sears.



Sandra Trott substitutes in Home Ec. classes.

Whether working part-time and after school, or substituting in Southern's classrooms, Southern's students have learned that responsibility is a definite part of education.

Eddie Jett works at Hack's in Annapolis.

LIBRARY

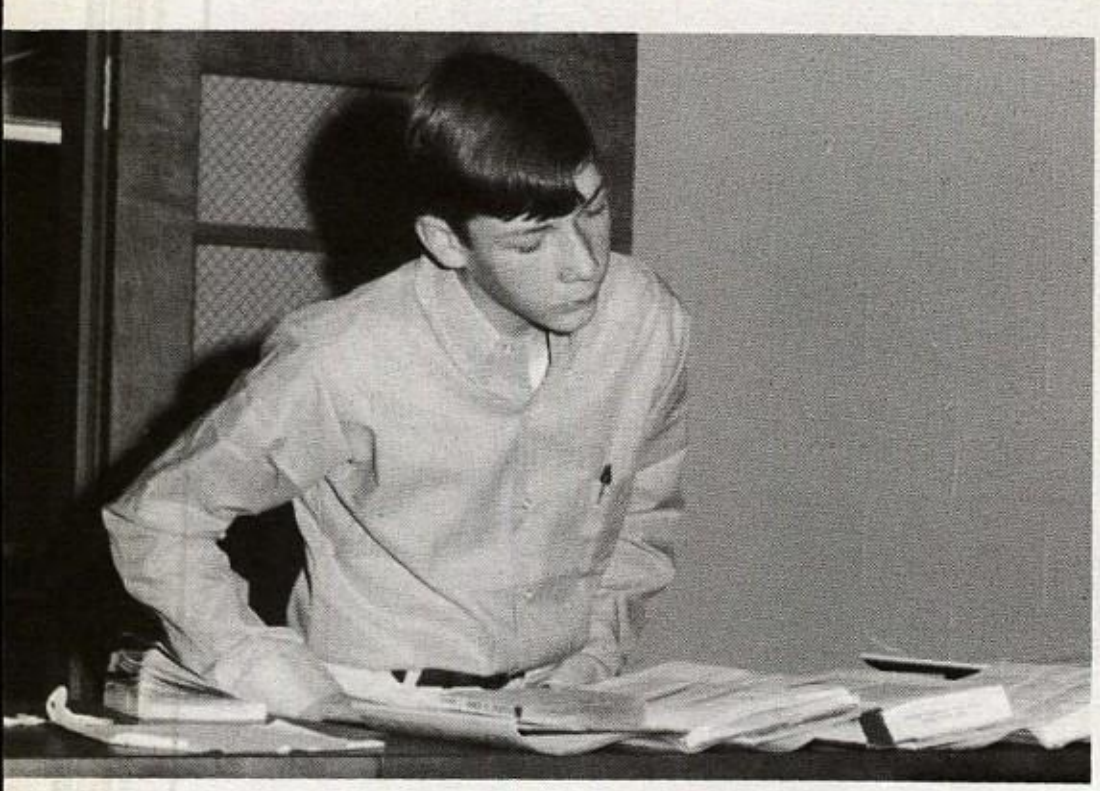
The newly completed library this year has clearly provided many tasks for the numerous student library workers.

In order to hasten the opening of the library, these students prepared over 8,000 books for the shelves by stamping, covering, and shelving books.

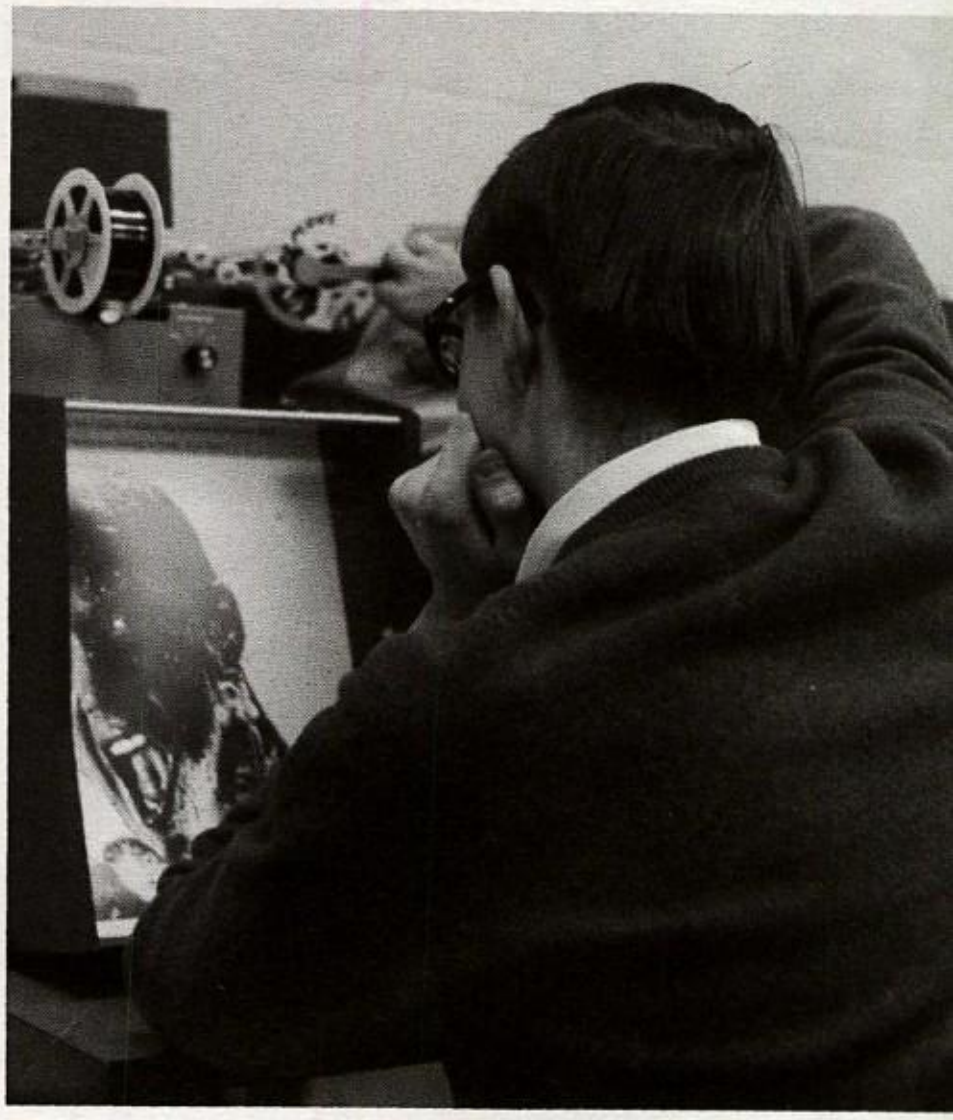
Students have been in charge of the disbursement of audio-visual equipment and materials. They have aided our librarian, Miss Bogle, by taking care of collecting and giving passes to library-bound students, and taking charge of the check-out desk.

Whether filing catalog cards, or dusting and arranging furniture, the student library workers have contributed greatly to the effectiveness and appearance of the library.

Books and more books.



Eugene Causey supervises the check-out desk.



A-V Aide Tom Hall previews a film.

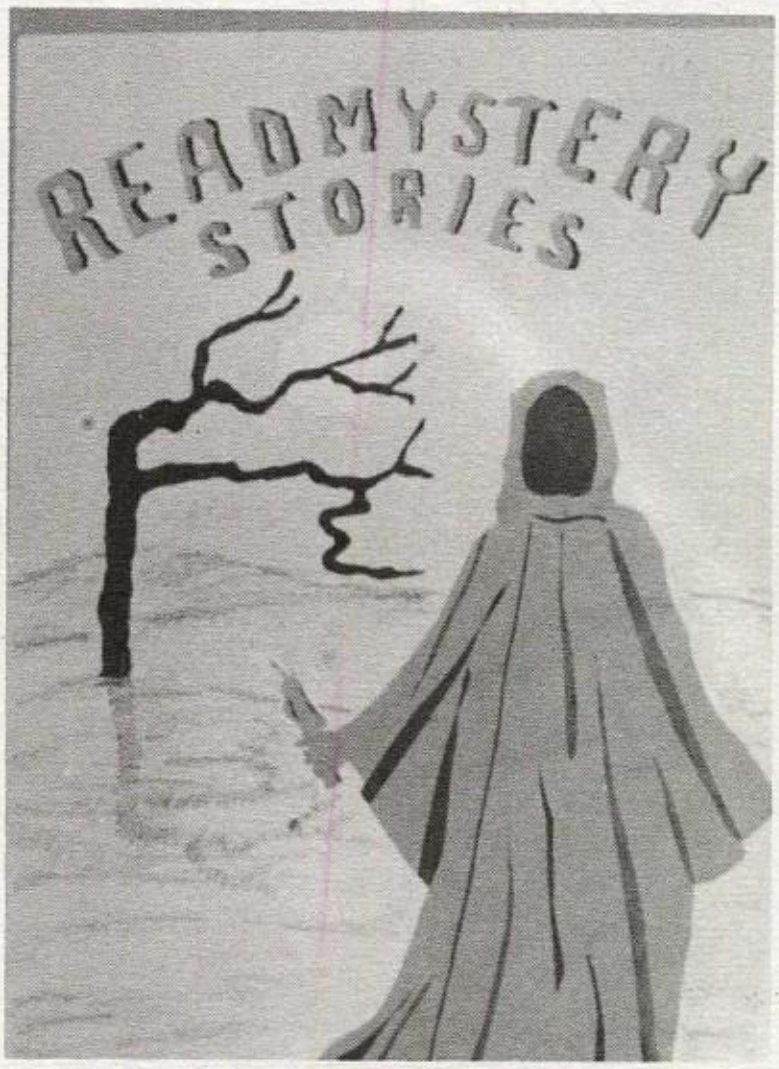
POSTER CLUB

Among the "brand-new" at Southern this year was the formation of a Poster Club. All one had to do, to see indication of the club members artful work, was to peek into the library. Here, eye-catching posters were displayed, adding to the attractiveness of our new library.



Unless you're scared.

Change is often like the migration of birds, it is necessary for existence. The members of Southern have experienced and accepted the year's change. As a child meets growth; there was the introduction into a new environment. While growing, there were obstacles to overcome as we learned to walk, and as we experienced new things, we learned. Southern is still growing, still progressing and will continue to do so, for life changes and goes on – winter melts into spring, spring enters into summer, summer to fall . . .
